

Tunnel Bargain Basement

This Communication

Was sent to us by a woman who thought her experience in the Tunnel Bargain Basement would make an interesting advertisement.

In a Note the Contributor Writes:

"This statement is true and you are at liberty to refer any one to me by letter addressed to your care, but kindly refrain from publishing my name."

My Experience

I take the liberty of making public a few facts of which I became aware but lately. Not long ago I ventured into the realm of bargains in search of a silk waist, which I had long desired, but felt too poor to afford. The price which I could pay was not to exceed seven dollars. Even that expenditure would leave me small margin for other necessities. As the garment was to resemble a style seen only in my own fancy, I found it rather hard to locate.

After spending two hours on a fruitless search, I wandered into a basement bargain room which opens from the Tunnel, and there upon a table, among many other designs, lay the exact article I had despaired of finding.

With a half sneer I advanced to examine the waist closely, for the price at which it was offered convinced me that it must be damaged. Imagine my surprise when I found the garment well made, nicely finished and perfect. Still believing there must be some out about the waist, I took it to the floor manager and demanded the reason for its low price. It was then that I learned of the extraordinary system practiced by this store.

"Yes, Madam," said he, "polite," "that is the same article which we offered two weeks ago for five dollars and ninety-nine cents. Last week we reduced the price twenty-five per cent., making the figure four dollars and forty-nine cents. On Monday morning fifty per cent. of the original price was deducted, and you see a waist on which our First Bargain Price was $3.99 offered for two dollars and ninety-nine cents."

"Now, if the waist remains in our store until next Monday, it will undergo a seventy-five per cent. reduction, and one week from Monday, if not sold, it will be given away."

"And who did you choose this particular article for such an experiment?" I asked.

"I did not," was the reply. "It is the rule with every article in the basement. Two weeks a garment is allowed to remain at its first price, after which it must be reduced twenty-five per cent., then fifty per cent., and sometimes a garment is bought and sold because it hangs in a corner. Nothing is allowed to remain in stock longer than five weeks."

Here is one article, I muttered to myself, which I must not wait for further reduction. I have too great a fear that some one else might want it. Perhaps the floor manager understood, for he smiled in a wise manner as I passed on.

'DOCTOR TRUST' CALLED ABSURD

To the statement that "the iron hand of the doctor trust forced Dr. Hays H. Wells of the Tufts Medical School to decline to address tonight the anti-vice society meeting at Tremont Temple," that the meeting was a "doctor trust" and a "doctor trust" is called absurd. The anti-vice society meeting was held at the Tremont Temple last night, and Dr. Wells was the only speaker. He was introduced by the Rev. Mr. Hays H. Wells, who is the president of the Tufts Medical School. Dr. Wells said that he was not a member of the doctor trust, and that he was not a member of the anti-vice society. He said that he was a member of the Tufts Medical School, and that he was a member of the anti-vice society. He said that he was a member of the Tufts Medical School, and that he was a member of the anti-vice society.

ENGINE DOGGED GOING TO FIRE

Construction of sewer connection for several new dwellings houses in Mount Vernon, in the Cedar Grove section of the city, resulted in Engine 20 and its hose being dogged while responding to the alarm for fire in the Station Avenue Methodist Church early to-day. The engine, driven by Charles H. Brown, was going at a good pace when it sank into one of the newly filled ditches at the corner of Cedar and Mount Vernon streets. The engine was stuck in the ditch, and the hose was pulled out. The engine was stuck in the ditch, and the hose was pulled out. The engine was stuck in the ditch, and the hose was pulled out.

AMATO SICK; GIRL GETS TAFT TODAY, Y. M. C. A.

By FREDERICK JOHNS. Illness is preventing the Metropolitan Opera artists and their families in a most startling fashion. Pavarotti Amato was prevented from appearing as Scarpio in "The Barber of Seville" last night because of the severe illness of his wife. A week ago his own sickness caused his appearance to be cancelled, and not only Amato, but Caruso, Scotti and De Biasi were affected in the manner to the grief of the Boston audience. "To-day" was sung last night with Pavarotti Amato and he made a most acceptable substitute. Contacting was again the Maria Caruso and sang superbly. Amato was the first to be arrested in connection with the theft. She was the first to be arrested in connection with the theft. She was the first to be arrested in connection with the theft.

WIRELESS GETS SLAYER AT SEA

NEW YORK, March 16.—Wireless messages flashed over the Atlantic for three days by the operator on the American ship, the Lusitania, which docked today, led to the arrest on the German liner Zetland of a man who is accused of being the slayer of a band which last January murdered a passenger ship, with wireless and cryptic in the little town of Milwaukee, Wis. The prisoner is a man named Zogolowski, who, the Russian police say, has served many terms in jail. Another man named Zogolowski, who is suspected of being the slayer of the band, is believed to be with him on the liner. A wireless message to the Italian liner Lusitania brought the response that earlier that day she had been in wireless communication with the Zetland. A message was received in the Zetland requesting the arrest of Zogolowski. As a precautionary measure, the Zetland was ordered to stop at the first port of call, and to detain Zogolowski. The Zetland was ordered to stop at the first port of call, and to detain Zogolowski. The Zetland was ordered to stop at the first port of call, and to detain Zogolowski.

WHITTAKER CASE STILL UNSOLVED

partial group, the body being brought toward the shore. The ladder was then on the bank and pushed toward the water, floating standing at one end and holding it from slipping, and several crawling out, rescued by boat, while the cracked the end and grasped the body. The crew of a launch landed it on the bank.

Brother Breaks Down.

Hartford went to the Chicago Hotel, where he was met by the police of Section 2, who notified Medical Examiner Lewis. The body was taken to the morgue in Lafayette square, where it was viewed by Dr. Lewis.

The body was that of a young woman of slender, of about 140 pounds weight, five feet four inches in height. It was dressed in a gray coat, three-quarter length, with black velvet collar and cuffs, a white waistcoat, dark velvet skirt, white underwear, heavy white damask undergarments, black hose and low shoes. A large comb and two small combs were in the hair. A small pin in a blue setting and a small chain also were fastened at the neck. On the left finger of the right hand was a small chain ring. A small bracelet was fastened on the right wrist. The body was black and blue, and a black and blue mark was visible on the left arm. In the pocket of the coat was a handkerchief marked "G. M. Whittaker."

About 7 o'clock Ralph Whittaker of Cambridge, a brother of Miss Whittaker, called by A. N. Ward, an undertaker, noted by the body. His name was first mentioned toward the long coat. He recognized it and said it was that of his sister. Talking from his pocket a photograph he picked out of his body and then at the photograph and said to Purdon John W. Roberts of Cambridge, "It is she." Mr. Whittaker said that he had been in the office across the street, where he was known, the handkerchief was found.

Reason a Mystery.

Purdon John W. Roberts, who is a relative by marriage of the Whittaker family, identified the body as that of Miss Whittaker.

A medical Examiner James H. Lewis and Medical Examiner Robert of Somerville, who were called to the morgue, identified the body as that of Miss Whittaker. The body was found in the water for two days, and the cause of death was not known. It was said that it was not the body of a woman who had been in the water for two days, but the body of a woman who had been in the water for two days.

James H. Whittaker was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Margaret Whittaker of the City of New York. She was born in the City of New York, and was a student of the City of New York. She was a student of the City of New York, and was a student of the City of New York.

Long Search in Vain.

The fire is supposed to have started in the building wing, which was occupied by W. F. Foggwell and R. E. Romane. It is believed that a cigarette thrown on the floor started the blaze, which rapidly spread to the other rooms. The fire was extinguished by the fire department, but the damage was extensive.

LIVING WAGE FOR WOMEN URGED

Members of the Legislative Committee on Labor were surprised when Charles H. Harcourt, representing the American Federation of Labor, made a statement, which was regarded as very timely to labor, joined with John D. Smith, of the Boston Trade Workers, Charles L. Brown and Mrs. S. A. Clark, all representatives of labor, in advocating the appointment of a commission to investigate the wages paid women and minors. The advocates of labor were using a minimum wage for women and minors was also urged. Mr. Brown, who appeared on behalf of several organizations of women, led the committee that more than 20,000 women in this State are working for less than $5 a week and that they were barely able to sustain a fair standard of living. It was pointed out that no woman can live with any degree of comfort on less than $5 a week.
